

RéQEF Excellence Scholarships Simone de Beauvoir Summer Institute (2017)

The Réseau québécois en études féministes (RéQEF) is delighted to announce the launching of a new competition for two Excellence Scholarships to students registered to the Simone de Beauvoir Summer Institute:

- 1) A $300 Excellence Scholarship to the university undergraduate student having obtained the highest grade (out of 100) for the Summer Institute. In case of equality, the scholarship money will be divided in two.
- 2) A $300 Excellence Scholarship to the university graduate student having obtained the highest grade (out of 100) for the Summer Institute. In case of equality, the scholarship money will be divided in two.

Founded in 2011, the RéQEF is an interuniversity, interdisciplinary and inter-regional strategic network of researchers, professors, students and collaborators coming from various communities of practice who share objectives, research interests, and an analytical and methodological optic. The RéQEF's main goal is to promote research in feminist studies, women's studies or gender studies. The network also aims to stimulate exchanges between its members as well as the development of common research projects. Academic training for and through research is one of RéQEF's central preoccupations, given its interest in inter-generational knowledge transfer.
